

Through integrated and multi-sectoral interventions, the response will contribute to improve access to essential humanitarian assistance, protection services, access to healthcare and ...

In 2025, the response strategy will target approximately 60 municipalities of the 81 identified critical municipalities. This strategy is guided by two key objectives: delivering a ...

The 2025 response plan emphasizes targeted, multisectoral interventions to address critical needs and reduce human suffering. By focusing on the most vulnerable municipalities and populations, the ...

For the coordinated response to food insecurity and acute malnutrition, partners investigated the severity of humanitarian needs of the most vulnerable populations, their geographical location and the ...

Guatemala's humanitarian crisis, fueled by food insecurity, climate change, and human mobility, requires urgent global support. The 2025 response plan emphasizes targeted, multisectoral...

Guatemala's humanitarian crisis is mainly driven by climate-induced disruptions to agricultural production and increased human mobility. In the country's Dry Corridor, families face increasing ...

However, as more migrants have moved closer to Guatemala City and secondary cities, the opportunities for formal housing and jobs have decreased and urban poverty continues to grow.

Priority humanitarian needs continue to be derived from climatic events (drought or floods), human mobility and migration. This analysis focused on 197 municipalities (58 per cent of the ...

Guatemala City, Guatemala, August 8, 2024 -- Following an uptick in the number of Mexicans displaced by violence and seeking safety in Guatemala, the International Rescue ...

Every year, thousands of Guatemalans seeking better opportunities and improved living conditions or who are fleeing insecurity, are stopped at the United States/Mexico border and returned ...

Web: <https://www.thehibiscuscoast.co.za>