

Iraq is set to open its first industrial-scale solar plant in a vast desert area in Karbala as the government attempts to tackle an electricity crisis that has led to widespread blackouts.

Farmers across Nineveh can use both rooftop panels and ground-mounted arrays, placed on farmland, to power irrigation systems and supply household needs.

The unstable security situation in Iraq has had a negative impact on electric power generation, which results in a shortage of supply. Additionally, the newly introduced technologies, the ...

Iraq is opening its first industrial-scale solar plant in Karbala province. This marks a significant step in the government's push to expand renewable energy in a country often facing electricity crises despite its ...

You know, Iraq's facing a perfect storm of energy challenges. With temperatures hitting 50°C (122°F) last summer and over 4.2 million people still lacking reliable grid access, the demand for resilient power ...

Summary: Discover why Lithium Iron Phosphate (LiFePO4) batteries are becoming Iraq's go-to choice for outdoor power supply systems. This article explores their applications, benefits, and real-world ...

To cope with the problem of no or difficult grid access for base stations, and in line with the policy trend of energy saving and emission reduction, Huijue Group has launched an innovative ...

Iraq faces a substantial electricity shortage, with nearly one-third of its supply coming from imports, including natural gas, according to Reuters. With 8 to 10 hours of daily sunshine and an ...

How do Iraqis cope in fiery summer heat, especially during power outages? They use private generators, which are now essential in Iraq.

Despite challenges related to high import costs, Iraq is taking decisive steps to diversify its energy sources. The Zafraniya power plant in Baghdad, which currently relies on Iranian gas, is ...

Web: <https://www.thehibiscuscoast.co.za>